The Electronic Briefcase

AUGMENT's Electronic Briefcase contains everything you traditionally have at your office. Tymshare's integrated office information system gives you immediate access to files of reports, correspondence, facts and figures. Your office files and those of your colleagues are stored in an online central file that accepts material from all users and catalogs it for easy retrieval. An effective access protection scheme prevents unauthorized use of selected files.

The powerful storage facilities of a timeshared mainframe computer or an on-site dedicated minicomputer system combine with TYMNET, Tymshare's communications network, to provide local, dial-up access to AUGMENT.

More than an Office File

AUGMENT's advanced information system offers much more than file storage and retrieval. An electronic mail service provides instant delivery of messages and mail. And information can be shared by geographically dispersed individuals or groups when collaborating with AUGMENT. The same document can be viewed simultaneously by two or more users, or files prepared separately can be combined to form one complete file.

Split Screen Display

Collaboration is further enhanced with a multiple display feature that lets up to eight independent areas appear on one screen. Different files can be viewed concurrently or different sections of a single file can be displayed side by side.

A wide range of visual screen display and printing terminals can be used to send and receive information, and final typesetting can even be done on a number of photocomposition devices.

The unique AUGMENT file structure permits you to make notes at various levels of a file — notes that are only displayed when you want to see them. A spelling dictionary of over 45,000 words automatically checks files for spelling errors and suggests corrections.

Graphics capability integrates line graphics with text. Bar charts, flow charts, even pie charts can be added to text.

A desk top calculator function allows you to perform arithmetic calculations on numbers taken from files or entered directly into the calculator.

Document production is enhanced with AUGMENT's extensive text processing tools. The easy command language — and features such as automatic formatting, justification, hyphenation, alphabetic sorting, columnation, and table manipulation — all work to create professional documentation with minimum effort.
